

World Quilt for Lila

When my granddaughter asked for a quilt with a world map, I wondered how to make it more feminine and something she would still use as she grew older. I had already made one for my grandson, with mariner's compass blocks. I didn't think she would appreciate that design, and I also wanted it to be educational, so I designed this suitcase. I added flowers to the front of each suitcase, representing the national flower of the country or countries that I embroidered on the luggage labels. This is the pattern for the suitcase, but the research and design of the flowers are up to you. Enjoy!

I made the blocks 13" finished.

1" square for scale

